Iconic Sydney band returns to Reef Festival

THE iconic Sydney based band, Martini Club, have once again been signed to perform at the 13th annual Whitsunday Reef Festival.

The Airlie Beach based festival is a four day event running from 15-18 August and provides a huge range of events, including live entertainment and street parties to keep the town rocking for years.

The Martini Club will be one of the headlining acts, much to the delight of organizers and locals alike.

“We are all excited to come back to Airlie Beach again. The party last year was unforgettable, and it was great to escape the cold Sydney weather for a few days,” band member Mark Olsen said.

Their shows deliver fun new mash-ups of current songs and they promise the crowd can expect the unexpected, and that the six piece band will have everyone dancing until the wee hours with their sexy fusion of latin percussion, house, funk and disco.

The Whitsunday Reef Festival will hold a truly unique party this year, as they host the Airlie Beach main street upgrade party.

After a horrific 12 months of the main street being upgraded to the detriment of local traders, this year’s festival will hold the re-launch celebration – the party to end all parties.
